

BELIEVES FAITHFUL AND EFFICIENT SERVICE SHOULD BE REWARDED

Last week's issue of the Record contained an article which has caused considerable comment. This comment, so far as we have learned, has been most favorable.

The Record announced that Councilmen A. J. Dalton, H. H. Smith and Julius Twisten would seek election to the City Council at the election to be held April 14. The publisher of the Record expressed the belief that these City Councilmen should be retained in office. At the time of the publishing of this announcement we believe that the people of Daly City would agree that the three men named should be elected.

That our opinion was based upon a correct conclusion of the feeling in Daly City has been evidenced by the fact that a number of residents of this city have called at the Record office, and in no uncertain terms announced their approval of the stand taken by the Record, declaring that Councilmen Dalton, Smith and Twisten will undoubtedly be elected on April 14, and by substantial majorities.

Judging by the approval given the stand we have taken on the coming city election, and the approval of our city government, it seems to be the unanimous opinion that Daly City enjoys an exceptionally efficient and economical administration of its affairs. And that this splendid condition and the developments and improvements essential to the continued progress of Daly City can best be guaranteed and more economically carried out by retaining the present harmoniously working and capable Councilmen.

It is generally recognized by those conversant with the facts that Daly City is an exceptionally well governed city.

The people of Daly City will be solidly behind Councilmen A. J. Dalton, H. H. Smith and Julius Twisten if the favorable comment received by the publisher of the Record is any indication of the attitude of the voters.

One of our prominent citizens remarked to the writer: "I should have to think long, and perhaps in vain, if I should be asked to name men who have performed more valuable service for Daly City than the members of the present City Council. Those who are candidates are business men of known ability, successful in their own affairs, and therefore qualified to look after the best interests of our growing city. Everyone in Daly City should be proud of them and be eager to retain their services on our Board of City Councilmen."

This tribute came from another business man: "I wouldn't want to see a change at this time in the personnel of the City Council. There is small chance of improvement, and much likelihood of a backward step, should we not elect Councilmen Dalton, Smith and Twisten. They have proven their ability and trustworthiness, and the people of Daly City are proud of them. I see no reason why the people of this city should not show their appreciation of the excellent services of Councilmen Dalton, Smith and Twisten by returning them to the City Council, and by an overwhelming majority."

"It seems to be an unwritten law in Daly City that conscientious service should be rewarded," remarked another caller at this office. "I am glad to note that the Record's policy of boosting for all things that are for the betterment of Daly City is applied to our city officials. Boosting is to be commended, especially when it is in the interest of the entire community. This attitude is gratifying, when one thinks of conditions years ago, when there was considerable turmoil and lack of progress in this community."

"Good city government and low taxes are an asset of considerable value, and one which has been responsible in a great measure for the rapid and substantial development of Daly City during the last few years. I am firmly convinced that the present City Councilmen are possessed of the knowledge and experience necessary to carry on the affairs of this city in the best interests of all the people. I am for A. J. Dalton, H. H. Smith and Julius Twisten. And I am confident that they will be almost unanimously elected. You will see that this prediction is fulfilled on April 14."

The Record believes that faithful and efficient service should be rewarded. We believe that the people of this city feel that the present City Councilmen have given the city an honest, efficient and business-like administration, and that they will vote for a continuance of these successful policies. Let us continue in office the men who have made good.

BOY BADLY INJURED WHILE FLYING KITE

Richard Samson, of Santa Cruz avenue, met with a painful accident last Tuesday while flying his kite. He was guiding the kite and climbed over a picket fence. As he did so his overalls caught on a picket, throwing him with such force that his arm was broken in two places, at the elbow and above it. Two playmates assisted him to his home. Dr. Rankin was then called and he ordered the boy removed to the Community hospital.

Four bone specialists were called from San Francisco. Two operations were performed on the arm in an effort to save it. The doctors are afraid of gangrene setting in, because of the stagnant blood left when the broken bone severed an artery. Early Wednesday morning there were signs of the blood circulating. His many friends hope to see him at home soon.

CROCKER P. T. A. TO HAVE DISTINGUISHED GUESTS

On Thursday, March 13, at 2 p. m., the people of Daly City will have the pleasure of hearing Mrs. de Gouchy, assistant to Dr. Lillian Martin, of San Francisco. Mrs. de Gouchy handles the juvenile cases brought to Dr. Martin, and is going to speak on "Child Psychology." Then she will allow time for questions. If you have a problem, come and ask Mrs. de Gouchy, and she will help you, we are sure. In addition to the speaker, the regular business of the association will be discussed and acted upon. Refreshments will be served. Please be there promptly at 2 o'clock—the Daly City Theatre building on Mission street. Leave the children at Kildehaven, on Wellington avenue, where they will be well cared for, and give you an opportunity to enjoy the meeting. There is no charge for this service.

BIRTHDAY SURPRISE PARTY

Bert Steuhler, of Peoria street, was guest of honor at a birthday surprise party given by his mother, Mrs. Frances Steuhler, Friday evening of last week, at the home of Mrs. Peterson, of 16 Shakespeare street. The dining room and table were prettily decorated in pink crepe paper and a huge birthday cake, prettily decorated, was very attractive. A delightful evening was spent in playing games and dancing. Bert was the recipient of many lovely gifts. The guests were Eleanor Webb, Marie Shaw, Anita Connolly, Elsie Manz, Louis Bashuber, Frank Shaw, Thomas Lowe, Cleon Abbott, Mrs. Steuhler, Mrs. Weber and Mrs. Peterson.

MERCHANTS HOLD GREAT MEETING

Any one who has any doubt about the success of the Daly City Merchant's Association should have attended the regular meeting held last Wednesday night at the City Hall.

There was an unusually large attendance and plenty of enthusiasm and good fellowship. There was hand shaking and speech making and although no attempt was made at oratory there was good common sense talk indulged in by all the speakers, which makes for progress and the final attainment of the objects in view.

After the business meeting the members were the guests of M. Bertoli, who had prepared an excellent repast and refreshments. Speaking and music were enjoyed until a late hour.

Music was furnished by J. Bosco, M. Bertoli and L. Maggi, and was first class. W. McGregor sang a song composed by him entitled "Daly City is a grand old town," and received great applause and seemed to strike the key note of the evening.

J. Bosco sang a comic song which was greatly enjoyed and brought roars of laughter and rounds of applause.

Informal speeches were made by H. H. Smith, A. J. Dalton, Andrew Vireno, Dr. Callen, Attorney W. H. Clay, Julius Twisten, Paul Selmi, A. L. Stockton and many others.

It is wonderful to see the harmony and spirit of united friendship which prevails at these meetings, where all are united for a common purpose; where every man has his say and is listened to respectfully. It is the spirit that men enjoy and this friendly co-operation is making the association a power for good in the community.

Several important matters came before the meeting, among them being a proposition for community advertising which was explained by Mr. Helsey and which was favorably received and will be further considered by the merchants individually.

New members are coming in rapidly, and it is hoped that all the merchants, business and professional men in Daly City will identify themselves with this organization without delay.

BUT FEW DAYS LEFT IN WHICH TO REGISTER

If you have not already registered, you should do so at once, as registration will close on March 15. Do not fail to see that you are registered if you desire to vote at the coming city election. All voters must register this year, regardless of previous registration.

Falvey, 314 Hillside boulevard; May Hawkins, 139 Knowles avenue; Ella McKee, 79 Irvington street; Lilly Riddell, 633 Templeton avenue; B. C. Ross, City Clerk, City Hall; Judge Ellis C. Johnson, Justice Court, City Hall; John J. Fahey, 6284 Mission street.

Party in Honor of Birthday

Mrs. E. Barazoto, of Peoria street, entertained a group of her little daughter's friends at her home on Wednesday afternoon of last week, in honor of Lorraine's birthday. The afternoon was delightfully spent in playing games, after which dainty refreshments were served. The table and dining room were tastefully decorated in patriotic colors. Lorraine was the recipient of many lovely gifts. The little guests were Beatrice Cuneo, Julia Steele, June Prescott, Alice Cuneo, Genevieve Webb, Virginia Fellman, and Lorraine and Vincent Barazoto.

DAIRYMEN MUST PAY FOR GRADING

Milk distributors of San Mateo county will be compelled to pay the county milk inspection fee or lose the right to have their product graded, if the board of supervisors accepts the milk ordinance offered last Monday by District Attorney Franklin Swart.

The milk inspector has reported to the board from time to time that some of the milk distributors had refused to pay the county fee, but in view of the fact that there was no law governing this, the non-paying distributors got the same service as those who paid.

The new ordinance, which is modeled after the one now in effect, with a few changes, will compel all distributors to pay or their milk will not be graded by the county inspector. The charge will be only to the distributor and will a quarter of a cent a gallon on all milk distributed.

Some milk dealers at the meeting wanted a clause inserted in the ordinance making it mandatory that milk sold in San Mateo be graded by the county inspector. This would be similar to the San Francisco law, which requires that all milk sold in San Francisco be graded there. The district attorney objected to this and said that he believed the San Francisco law wrong, and that San Mateo county should be willing to accept the grading and inspection of other communities.

There will be a public hearing on the ordinance March 17. All dealers or anyone else desiring will be heard at that time.

LOCAL KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS EXEMPLIFY SECOND DEGREE

A class of seventeen candidates was advanced through the second degree of the K. of C. last Tuesday evening, March 9, at Eagles Hall. Mission Council degree team conferred the degree in an impressive manner. The members of Mission Council's team were: John Zumwalt, G. K.; Frank Sullivan, Chan.; Si Ashe, Fin. Sec., and J. Madison, Warden.

Daly City Council will observe Sunday, March 16, as the first anniversary of the council's institution. All members will receive communion at 8:30 Mass in Our Lady of Perpetual Help Church on that day. A breakfast will be served after communion in the parish hall. In the afternoon the third degree will be conferred at Eagles Hall, after which a banquet and talks by prominent men of the order will end a busy day for Daly City Council, and its first year of remarkable success as a branch of Columbianism in this fast growing community. SCHOOL BONDS ARE SOLD AT PREMIUM

Nine companies bid last Monday on the $130,000 bond issue for Burlingame schools before the board of supervisors. The supervisors and District Attorney Franklin Swart analyzed the bids and accepted the offer of the Detroit Company, Inc., of San Francisco, with a premium of $5,500, the highest offered.

The bond issue was approved by Burlingame voters at a recent election and the money will be used for the erection of a new school in Burlingame hills and the purchase of equipment. The bonds will bear interest at 5 per cent.

The supervisors refused to take any action on a letter from the city of Burlingame asking county aid for the construction of intersections to link streets running out of the Shore Land Company development onto the Bayshore highway. District Attorney Swart advised the board that the county had no authority to expend any money on this enterprise.

The land upon which the intersection would have to be built is reported to be state highway property, and the streets are said to have been opened since the construction of the Bayshore road. According to the Burlingame letter the state has refused to aid the project.

The Millbrae water issue won another rest when the board decided to hold the proposition over for another two weeks. The Fair Oaks sewer plan also went by the board for another delay of two weeks.

Members of the board approved a survey for the extension of Prospect road, San Carlos, on through to Belmont, and agreed to pay for half of the survey. The Women's club of San Mateo, the board learned, plans to plant a row of trees to act as a wind break at Community hospital. The use of redwood trees was recommended as best suited to the purpose.

The supervisors passed a resolution endorsing the Peninsula Industrial conference plan to make San Mateo county an industrial center and agreed to give whatever co-operation they could. The board received a request from the Building Trades Council urging that San Mateo mechanics be employed in preference to outsiders in the construction of the new Community hospital wing.

The board was informed that the county chamber of commerce had endorsed the proposed cross-county highway.

Upon the suggestion of Supervisor Manuel Francis, Half Moon Bay, the board ordered a letter written to the San Francisco board of supervisors asking what action the city intended to take in the Pedro mountain road survey.

It has been understood that the city has $100,000 available for this and Francis charges that he has not been able to get any information about the money or what the city intends doing. He charged that San Mateo county has been held up for months on account of the city's neglect in acting and says plans and everything are ready to go ahead with the survey.

ENTERTAINS IN HONOR OF DAUGHTER'S BIRTHDAY

Mrs. Harrel Chandler, of 660 Hanover street, entertained a group of friends last Saturday evening in honor of her daughter Myrtle, who celebrated her twelfth birthday. The evening was delightfully spent in playing games and dancing. The dining room and table were prettily decorated in pink and green crepe paper and a huge birthday cake occupied the center of the table. Miss Myrtle received many lovely gifts. Those present were Thais Weckerle, Alecia Fields, Jessie Augustin, Alice Bagg, Gloria Sibilia, Frances Bernal, Bert Wester, Myron Bernal, Earl Barrett, Raymond Harbaugh, Kenneth Waddiker, Harrel Chandler, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. F. Sibilia, William Sibilia, Beverly Chick and Walter Taurick.

GIRLS' SPORT CLUB ORGANIZED

The Girls' Sport Club held its first meeting for the purpose of organizing at the home of Nathalie Bogart, of Fournoy street, Friday evening, February 24th.

An election of officers was held which resulted in the choice of Alice Burr, president; Nathalie Bogart, vice-president; and Mary Collins, secretary-treasurer.

A constitution was drawn up, after which activities for the future were planned, among which were a roller skating party, a swimming party, a hike, a pajama party, and a hard time party.

The meeting was adjourned to partake of dainty refreshments. Those present were Dorothy Boyd, Alice Burr, Edythe Cochrane, Mary Collins, Effie Crawford, Martha Nelson, Frances Regan and Nathalie Bogart.

INDIAN TWIRLERS OPPOSE SAN JOSE IN OPENING GAME

By HAROLD MARTIN

The Jefferson high school unlimited baseball team, North Coast section champions of the California interscholastic federation, will begin a campaign in defence of their championship next Friday. The local nine opposes San Jose on the home diamond.

This contest opens the Peninsula athletic league season which will last six weeks. The Indians play four games on the Daly City diamond and travel on three occasions. Jefferson's schedule is as follows:

March 14—San Jose at home.
March 21—Burlingame at Burlingame.
March 24—San Mateo at San Mateo.
April 4—Palo Alto at home.
April 11—South City at home.
April 18—Sequoia at home.
April 25—Half Moon Bay at Half Moon.

Jefferson's toughest opponents will probably be San Jose and Sequoia. These schools usually have teams that play the highest brand of ball. Due to their extensive practice they should be early season favorites.

Jefferson will have to depend on the ability of their pitcher again this year to carry them on to victory. Ralph Enzlin has been nominated to bear this burden. He will have five veterans behind him. They are Joe Conti, Jack Gibbons, LeeRoy Sorelle, Richard Varni and Andy Vireno.

Hughie Smith, a very reliable catcher, will be behind the plate. The other prospects that turned out for practice are: Ralph Clark, Walter Davis, Marshall Gattety, Salvador Guerrero, Gerald Harper, Alfred Hoar, Tom Long, Herman Kalinin, Glenwin Meadows, Billie Jacques, Charles Munday, Emile Oppermann, Richard Pescaro, Orlan Petrocchi, Pete Pastrino, Walter Stevens, and Pete Sola.

The Jefferson athletes have been handicapped by practicing on the soft grounds while the regular diamond was being reconditioned. This fact will probably cause a slow start on their part, but after they get going, watch their smoke.

GENERAL PERSHING P. T. A. HAS INTERESTING MEETING

The regular monthly meeting of the General Pershing P. T. A. was held March 4, at the General Pershing school.

Very interesting discussions were had during the business meeting. The members voted to aid in supporting the baby clinic for this school district. A night whist was also voted upon, the members deciding to give this whist on the evening of March 20. It promises to be a very enjoyable affair, and the public is cordially invited to attend.

The P. T. A. will ask the school board to join with them in a meeting on the evening of April 27.

The district vice-president and the district spiritual aid chairman attended the meeting and gave very interesting talks along the various lines connected with their offices.

After the business meeting the members and guests enjoyed a novel program given by the pupils of the school. The various numbers, with the children in engaging costumes, proved very entertaining and showed the care and thought given by the committee in charge, Mrs. Lyon and Mrs. Watson, ably assisted by the mothers and teachers.

Following the children's program, the president, Mrs. Fletcher, introduced Mr. Lawlor, of the Bank of Italy. Mr. Lawlor gave a very instructive talk on "Thrifty," which was enjoyed by the children as well as the grownups. In closing his remarks he presented the P. T. A. with two pictures. One is of Benjamin Franklin, our earliest and best known advocate of "Thrifty." The other is known as the "Paisley Shawl." They make a pleasing addition to the P. T. A. meeting room, and the president, Mrs. Fletcher, accepted them with a few well chosen remarks.

The meeting then adjourned and refreshments were served at a tastefully decorated table. Members and guests numbering thirty-eight were in attendance.

AN AFTERNOON WHIST PARTY

An afternoon whist party was given by Mrs. J. Jordan at her home on Bellevue avenue, on Tuesday, for the Crocker Parent-Teachers' Association. A most enjoyable afternoon was spent, after which refreshments were served by the hostess. Those present were Mrs. Ida Reiman, Mrs. O. Pauw, Mrs. Myrtle Church, Mrs. Margaret Lemons, Mrs. Stina Tompsett, Mrs. Edna Anderson, Mrs. Julia Byrne, Mrs. Anna Eason, Mrs. Nell Caine, Mrs. Adeline Jordan, Mrs. Ethel Bolger and Mrs. J. Jordan.

"CUB" PROGRAM FOR BOYS IS APPROVED

Nearly four million American boys between the ages of 9 and 12 will be eligible to become members of the Boy Scout movement through the new "Cub" program formally approved by the executive board of the Boy Scouts of America last week, according to James E. West Chief Scout Executive. The report on the program was made to the executive board by Mr. William D. Murray, chairman of the Younger Boy Committee, under whose leadership active work on the program was started and has been carried on.

The program which is an outdoor character building and citizenship training program formulated through the efforts of prominent educators, sociologists and psychologists working with Dr. H. W. Hurt, Director of the Boy Scout Research Department of the Boy Scouts, is already in effect on an experimental basis in many parts of the country.

The development of the plan for boys of pre-Scout age has been in experimental process under the direction of Dr. H. W. Hurt for more than two years, but the executive board of the Boy Scouts has just given its approval to the formal launching of the project. Under this approval the approximately 700 Scout executives in the United States will have opportunity gradually to make the "Cub" program available in their respective areas as they are prepared to meet conditions and carry the program forward.

The "Cub" program is planned with interesting activities. Three ranks are proposed, "Wolf," "Bear" and "Lion," which lead to the Tenderfoot Scout rank when the boy has reached twelve, the minimum Scout age.

The program is administered by local Scout organizations avoiding duplication of machinery. In building the program scientific methods were followed, and during the course of its preparation the advice of 13,500 leading specialists in education, welfare and religion was sought. The program was definitely worked out under the direct supervision of a sub-committee of twenty-two.

WILL CONTINUE FIGHT AGAINST BILLBOARDS

With the nation's 1930 tourist travel already heading westward to the scenic frontiers of California, state and private agencies will continue their campaign against unsightly billboards along highways.

After a conference with highway officials, Mrs. Charles N. Felton, chairman of the newly organized California Committee for Restriction of Outdoor Advertising, announced a statewide campaign to recruit adherents to the anti-billboard movement. "It is not fair to allow a comparatively few business concerns to litter hilltops and creek beds, forests and pastures, mountain passes and desert wastes, with their huge, glaring placards, which have been multiplied to such an extent that they have become the foundation for national ridicule," Mrs. Felton declared.

FISH AND GAME CLUB COMMEND SUPERVISORS

Enthusiastic endorsement of action taken by the board of supervisors of this county to prevent the damming up and diversion of water from Slate creek, Oil creek, Peters creek, Corte Madera creek, and other creeks tributary to Pescadero and Tunitas creeks, was given by the San Mateo County Fish and Game Association at its meeting in San Mateo this week.

The opposition to the plans of certain interests now applying for permission from the Board of Public Works, division of water resources of the state, was made at the board of supervisors' meeting when a protest was made by George Dunn, coastside publisher. A resolution opposing the granting of the petition by the state office was passed by the board of supervisors.

It was this action by the supervisors which received the commendation of the fish and game club. The carrying out of the plan, it was stated, would result in the drying up of Pescadero creek, one of the important creeks on the coastside of the county.

At the same meeting reports were made on the success of the association's campaign to have the Spring Valley watershed lands established as a permanent game refuge. At the request of the association resolutions have been passed by numerous organizations, including the San Francisco Downtown Association. A committee will present these petitions to the San Francisco board of supervisors in the near future.

SPRING VALLEY PAYS BIG TAX TO SAN MATEO COUNTY

The Spring Valley Water Company paid its last county taxes on 23,765 acres of property in San Mateo county sold to the city and county of San Francisco, Tuesday afternoon, when County Tax Collector Ambrose McSweeney received a check for $94,025.32 from President Eastland of the water company.

The payment was the second installment of Spring Valley's 1929-30 county taxes. The total assessment against the Spring Valley for the fiscal year was $188,051.80.

The properties were purchased by San Francisco for the sum of $40,000,000 last week, and is now part of the municipal water system. San Francisco will pay nearly $600,000 taxes on the acquired properties in both counties, McSweeney said, and about $200,000 of the amount will be paid to San Mateo county.

Spring Valley still retains 15,000 acres in the county outside the watershed sold to San Francisco, McSweeney said.

RUBBER FIRM EXECUTIVE SUICIDES IN SAN MATEO

Emmet Lee Rettig, aged 54, Pacific coast manager of the Badger Rubber company, hanged himself in a bathroom at his home, 18 Aragon drive, San Mateo, some time Tuesday night, while his son, Fred A. Rettig, with whom he lived at the San Mateo home, was in San Francisco. The body was found in the bathroom by his son, who returned shortly after 1 o'clock.

A note left on a chair in a bedroom asked forgiveness of relatives and directed the American Trust Company to assist the son in administration of the estate. It referred to the grief suffered by Rettig since the death last August of his wife, Mrs. Gertrude Rettig.

The body was clothed only in a pajama coat. Clothing was found about the bathroom and the bed was disturbed as if Rettig had left it after trying to sleep.

The son told police that the father had been despondent since the death of his wife, which occurred while the family was living in Ravenswood, near Redwood City.

Drink Water to Help Wash Out Kidney Poison

If Your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers You, Begin Taking Salts

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which helps to remove the body's urinary waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of good water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they are no longer a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which everyone should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this; also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.

To Avoid Infection

Bradley, superintendent of schools. Of the sum specified, $220,000 will take care of the high school needs and $430,000 will be needed for the elementary schools. Plans were completed for the installation of a lighting system in the Fresno State College Stadium, making possible the staging of the annual West Coast Relays as a night feature of the annual California Raisin Festival. A lighting system, to cost $8500, will be installed by the Fresno County Chamber of Commerce. The night relays will mark the first outdoor relay meet in the world, officials stated.

The traditional treaty by which General George Crook was alleged to have guaranteed perpetual hunting and fishing rights on the Pit River to the Indians of Pit Valley was just a letter of recommendation. This is the declaration of Colonel William Thompson, pioneer Indian fighter and now justice of the peace at Alturas, who is an authority on the early history of Modoc county. Thompson says he saw and read the letter when it was in the hands of its guardian, Chief Chip, thirty years ago. After the death of Chip it is said to have disappeared. At that time, Thompson says he translated the contents of the document to the chief, and urged that it be left with him for safe-keeping, but the chief refused to part with it. The Pit Indians acted as guides to the white soldiers in their battle with the snakes and the Plutes. Recently they have started a movement to have their memorial fishing and hunting rights restored.

It hardly seems possible, but there are twenty-four different ways in which whiskers may be worn. This was demonstrated when artists of the State Division of Architecture prepared sketches showing two dozen types or hirsute adornments. It was considered the latest thing in style charts for 1930 whisker modes. Facial trimmings as depicted in the charts will be adopted by state employees in a whisker contest for the days of '49 celebration to be held in Sacramento this year.

Modification of methods used for distribution among states of federal power commission fees, as ordered recently by the United States comptroller general, means an increase of more than $30,000 annually to California in its share of tax returns, Governor Young was advised recently. Under the present method of distribution fees collected by the government from power plant operations, California receives between $5000 and $6000 annually, which sum goes into the state's general fund. Congressman Harry L. Englebright, declared that the new method of distributing fees just ordered by the comptroller general means a substantial increase in allocations to the various states. "California will be the largest gainer, and with increasing power developments promises to afford a very substantial recompense to the state. This decision may be retroactive, and in this event California would be entitled to about $75,000 back payment."

During 1929 11,402 registered nurses were issued renewals of their California certificates. It was announced by the state department of public health. Last year 1408 applicants passed the state examination and were granted nurses' certificates and 1270 were registered from other states.

The city council authorized Blaine Otis, in charge of the mining operations at the Little Bonanza, to tunnel under the city streets in north Sonoma. The company agrees to repair all damage. This action follows the recent caving-in of the tunnel, when a portion of the street dropped into a tunnel.

Pathe studios prepared to carry out a program calling for the removal of its present New York comedy production units to California. A production program of thirty feature pictures with an expenditure of $13,000,000 was announced for 1930.

After comparing figures, Long Beach claims the lowest pro rata fire loss of all California cities. Statistics on file there show the annual cost of the Long Beach fire department to be $450,000, compared with Sacramento $400,000, San Diego $300,000 and Pasadena $250,000.

Fresno children whose parents are financially unable to afford them hospital care will be given free treatment through the endowment of a five-bed ward at the Burnett Sanitarium, Dr. D. W. Trowbridge, secretary and manager of the hospital, announced. Children less than 12 years old will be permitted free to the ward, which will be supervised by Miss Esther Hart.

The directors of the Fifth Highway District voted to assess the State of California, through the Public Works Department, $7530 for the highway improvement between the Carquinez bridge and the Lilac service station. Solano County will pay the additional $500. Work is to be started in a short time.

Danger of the rapid spread of fire, once it starts in California timber, grain, brush or grass lands, was clearly demonstrated by State Forester M. B. Pratt in a summary of 1929 conflagrations. Out of 3,468 fires outside national forests, he said, 756 covered a quarter of an acre or less, 1,237 involved from a quarter of an acre to ten acres, and all the rest, 1,415, burned over areas in excess of ten acres. In Mendocino county alone there were 153 of these larger fires out of a total of 198 of all classes during the year.

Extension of the Kettleman Hills natural gas lines to the foothill counties was seen in surveys completed for a line from Sacramento to Roseville, Auburn and Colfax, and projected to Grass Valley and Nevada City. The latter two communities have been supplied with fuel gas, manufactured from crude oil, for more than twenty-five years, being served by one of the original units of the Pacific Gas & Electric Company system.

Filing a brief in federal court the Southern Pacific put forward another reason for its contention that the city of Willow Glen, near San Jose, can't stop the railroad from extending its right of way through that city. According to the brief, the railroad has what it regards as a federal franchise to operate in Willow Glen, issued on October 11, 1923, by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The Delhi colonists have been granted an extension of 60 days to work out a substitute proposal for Plan W for retirement of the state from colony affairs, the State Land Settlement Board announced. Adams of Livingston assumed responsibility for its development and that colonists petition for formation of an improvement district to take over the colony's irrigation system for operation this season.

Official steps for the establishment of "marriage clinics" in California were taken with the filing of corporation papers with the Secretary of State. California homes and farms of $34,408,671 total value have been purchased for 7216 war veterans through the state veterans' welfare board since 1921. George M. Stout, secretary of the board, said. Homes purchased numbered 6927 at a total cost of $32,823,535, or an average of $4738. The cost of 239 farms was $1,585,136, an average of $5484, according to figures released by Mr. Stout. A proposal to issue an additional $20,000,000 bonds for this veterans' aid will be balloted upon at the November election. According to Stout, this money would assist 5000 more veterans to obtain homes and farms through the state on a long time repayment plan.

"Star route" mail contracts from Nevada City, center of the mountain distribution, were awarded to Frank Davies on the Allegany area, taking in North Columbia, and Stephen Matteoda on the Graniteville road, including North Bloomfield. Tom Wasson, Fresno rancher, has captured a wild horse on the plains west of Tulare Lake and is breaking the horse for saddle purposes. Wasson and a friend of his drove out onto the plains in a fast car, located the horse, one of a half dozen still left on the plains, and lassoed it after a chase of 16 miles. Wasson drove continuously after the horse at a speed ranging from 36 to 65 miles an hour. The horse, after circling the car, ran in a straight line toward the foothills.

MAJORS SPENDING MONEY IN MINORS

New York Yankees Drop $20,000 at Chambersburg.

A checkup in the Blue Ridge league for the season of 1929 reveals the enormous amount of money that the major leagues are expending in maintaining farms. Conditions in the Blue Ridge circuit differ somewhat but not radically from other leagues in the country, especially those below the Class A classification.

Cleveland at Frederick dropped $21,000; the Yanks at Chambersburg, $20,000; the Athletics at Martinsburg, $11,000, and the Cardinals at Waynesboro, $7,000.

Hanover received $5,000 from Detroit, and also lost considerable more. Hagerstown had to be helped out to the extent of $3,000 to retain its franchise, and the club management also lost considerable.

Cleveland, the Yanks, Athletics and Cardinals spent well in trying out young ball players. Apparently they tried out every youngster recommended. They paid these players' fares both ways, and the big majority of them hardly remained overnight in the town to which club they reported.

Whitcomb and Boojum, leading juveniles in 1929, will not run in the Kentucky derby next May, Tom Healy, trainer for H. P. Whitney, announces.

The Whitney pair were favorites in the winter books on the derby.

Whitcomb led the money winners among the juveniles last year, earning $135,455 for Whitney. Boojum was the third best money-maker among the 1929 two-year-olds, bringing in $57,650.

J. B. Adoue, wealthy Dallas banker, was placed fifth in the official ranking of Texas tennis players for 1929. He is forty-seven years old. Only Berkeley Bell, University of Texas star, and three others rate ahead of him.

To promote interest in wrestling and to honor Cornell's veteran wrestling coach, Walter F. O'Connell, who has brought ten intercollegiate championships to the university, eight medals will be awarded annually to those members of the wrestling squad who have given their best efforts to the sport and have not been able to win their letter or the university championship medal. According to the announcement which was made by Thomas I. S. Boak, '14, of Seneca Falls, former intercollegiate champion, the medals were underwritten by Charles K. Bassett, '14, of Buffalo, N. Y., a former member of the wrestling squad.

One of the entertaining features of the sales of publicity now being sent out concerning Primo Carnera is the frantic effort to find some sort of popular nickname for the phenom with the No. 16 shoes and the No. 7 hat.

It's a quaint old custom of the ring this business of making a fighter affectionately known by anything else except his real name. It goes clear back to ye olde John L. Sullivan, who preferred to be known as the "Boston Strong Boy," and followed the sport down through the modern Wild Bulls of the Pampas, the Big Rocks from Down Under, the Manassa Maulers, and the like. These were expressive and became more or less popular.

But in the case of Carnera the attempts so far seem to have been a melancholy bust. Right now, lacking anything better in the way of an inspiration, they're trying to make Carnera known to the hol polloi as the "Dinosaur of the Dolomites."

The pitching and not the lively ball is responsible for the run of slugging, according to Bobby Quinn, president of the Boston Americans. Quinn is widely known in the Association, having handled the reins of the Columbus club for many years. Columbus men are interested with him in the ownership of the Boston club.

"The pitching is more to blame for heavy hitting than the lively ball," says Quinn. "When a pitcher has control you do not see any runaway score. The first game of the World's series is an example. The ball did not prove very lively that day. Of course, when you get a pitcher who can't pitch it where he wants to, and when the batter takes a toe-hold, you're going to see some long-distance hitting."

Boston's regular first basemen, Phil Todd, of the Red Sox, and George Sisler, of the Braves, will have to hustle to keep out Bill Sweeney and Johnny Neun this spring.

Children Cry for it

Children hate to take medicine as a rule, but every child loves the taste of Castoria. And this pure vegetable preparation is just as good as it tastes; just as bland and harmless as the recipe reads. (The wrapper tells you just what Castoria contains.)

When Baby's cry warns of colic, a few drops of Castoria has him soothed, asleep again in a jiffy. Nothing is more valuable in diarrhea. When coated tongue or bad breath tell of constipation, invoke its gentle aid to cleanse and regulate a child's bowels. In colds or children's diseases, use it to keep the system from clogging. Your doctor will tell you Castoria deserves a place in the family medicine cabinet until your child is grown. He knows it is safe for the tiniest baby; effective for a boy in his teens. With this special children's remedy handy, you need never risk giving a boy or girl medicine meant for grown-ups. Castoria is sold in every drug store; the genuine always bears Chas. H. Fletcher's signature.

Of all the satisfactions, that of being courteous is one of the most gratifying.

Beware of ever discouraging a boy in his first job. That's when his character is being made.

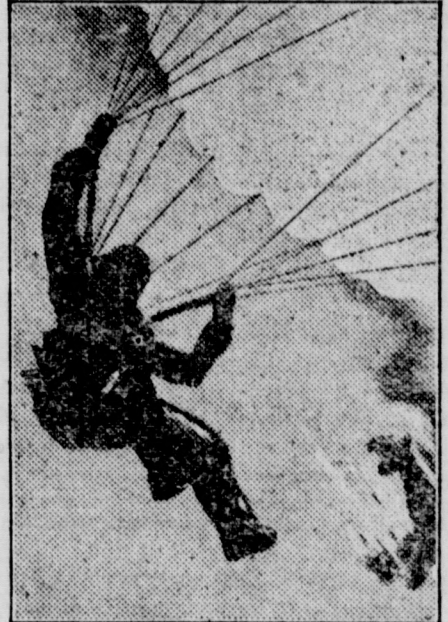

Fliers Say Courage Varies with the Way they Feel

AEROPLANE

A pilots tell us that their courage, their whole attitude toward flying, varies from day to day, with the way they feel. If they feel full of pep, healthy, they can try anything—nothing frightens them. Their nerve is unshakable; their skill keen; their flying is machine-like in its perfection.

It is an entirely different story, however, if they wake up in the morning feeling sick, down in the mouth. Then flying becomes a real danger.

What is the matter with these brave people when they are not up to par? The natural poisons in their bodies have not been swept away. They are allowing their brains to be clouded and dulled by poisons which should not be permitted to remain in the body.

It is the lesson that points to Nujol—the simple, natural, normal way—without the use of drugs or medicines to keep the body internally clean of the poisons that slow it up. Nujol is pure, tasteless, colorless as clear water. It forms no habit; it cannot hurt even a baby.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

That the home-owned, home-operated stores of your city are dependable, for they are run by your neighbors and your friends—citizens who are putting what they make back into the home city to make it more prosperous, not sending it away to help make some other city bigger.

Their stocks are the best obtainable. You should keep well acquainted with them; you should take pride in the supremacy these business concerns have established. They think quality first, then price.

No city can move ahead nor can its people be prosperous when home pride is lacking. People who make money in the home city and spend it elsewhere lack home pride.

Citizens cannot act with effect unless they act in concert. If they are not linked together with home pride and common interests, they and their city are indeed in a bad shape.

Better business for your home merchants and neighbors lays the foundation for a better and more dependable city.

Your city will be able to meet the keenest competition from other cities only through consistent co-operation of its citizens to build better local business.

It's always better to be safe than sorry. The local merchants who advertise in this newspaper guarantee their merchandise. Read their advertisements before you buy.

If one is clever in dodging expenses he will not have to meet them.

A lot of people keep busy by telling how busy they are.

FORD PHILANTHROPY

It was almost inevitable that Henry Ford should sooner or later adopt some plan for devoting a part of his great fortune to the service of mankind. His plan was announced a few days ago, and involves spending some $100,000,000 for the founding of schools, and giving the rest of his active life to the cause of education.

He said that some of the schools would be large institutions and that they would be placed in various parts of the country, but that the number had not been decided. His principal object was stated to be the assistance of young men to find suitable places in the world.

That the proposed Ford schools will stress the practical side of education was also indicated by their donor's expressed belief that everyone should learn a trade, so as to be able to find employment in at least one line of useful effort.

As a hint to those who may feel the urge to offer him unwanted advice concerning his program, Mr. Ford says that he intends to invest his money in his own way, and does not care for any suggestions from persons who have never made or saved a dollar themselves.

However he may dispose of the millions he has decided to devote to his latest activity, it is safe to say that his decision will have a far-reaching and beneficial effect upon succeeding generations of young people.

The true philosopher doesn't whine for things he knows he can't get.

Uncle Sam is a Shylock or an easy mark, depending on the point of view.

BIG SCHOOL PROGRAM

School building may shatter all records in 1930, in spite of the fact that educational buildings erected in the United States last year cost $416,297,720.

Such is the encouraging news contained in a recent statement based on reports made to a nationally known heating engineer's firm. It is also indicated that the class of construction and equipment employed will be better than formerly.

The little old red school house of sentimental fame, with its flimsy, fire-trap walls, its draughty floors and poor lighting, has faded into obscurity. Yet health bureaus declare that a million persons are ill daily from preventable causes, many being school children who are victims of improper heating, usually overheating.

"Educational leaders are striving to correct this condition," say the engineers, "and many of the new schools will install up-to-date heating systems, while others are changing over to scientific methods of heating, thus protecting health and saving at least a fourth of the fuel bill."

Twenty million children are now in the grade schools, while other millions are overflowing the high schools and colleges. Thousands of buildings are obsolete, and throughout the nation many new buildings are vitally needed to meet population growth.

It is pleasing to note that a genuine effort is being made to provide the oncoming generations with facilities for health and comfort during study hours.

LAST VETERAN TO QUIT

It is with a tinge of sadness that we note the intention of Congressman Charles Manly Stedman of North Carolina to retire from public life at the end of his present term, at which time he will be 90 years of age.

The sentimental feeling regarding Major Stedman, which is apparently shared by North and South alike, comes from the fact that he is the last veteran of the Civil war who will ever occupy a seat in Congress. Senator Warren of Wyoming, the last Union soldier in that body, died last fall.

Another striking fact about Major Stedman is that he did not enter Congress until he was 70 years old, yet he was elected for ten consecutive terms, and will have served 20 years as a Representative when he retires on March 4, 1931.

Major Stedman was born on January 29, 1841; served as a private, lieutenant, captain and major under Lee, and was wounded three times in action. He served as lieutenant-governor of North Carolina before he was elected to Congress. He is a lawyer by profession.

On his recent birthday, Congressman Daughton of his state paid a glowing tribute to Major Stedman, which included these words:

"He has by his great ability, courtly manners, conscientious devotion to duty, his assiduous and untiring energy, rendered a service that has commanded national recognition, approval and admiration."

To few men has it been given to experience such a long and honorable career. He will leave active public life with the sincere affection of his fellow countrymen, who will wish for him many more years in which to enjoy his well-earned rest.

COMMON SENSE JUSTICE

One of the distressing results of sending men to prison indiscriminately for all sorts of offenses is that it often works a terrible hardship on those dependent upon them. Judge Nova, of Brooklyn, is one who recognizes this, and in certain cases adopts practical means to protect innocent victims of the law's operation.

When Frank Bruno, who earns $50 a week, was brought before him recently and pleaded guilty to having two wives, one with two children and the other with one, the judge said:

"I would gladly send you to Sing Sing, but your two wives and their children would be the sufferers. You will pay the wife with two children $20 a week and the wife with one child $15."

Thus five persons, who would have been deprived of their support through sending Bruno to the penitentiary, were provided for, while the culprit will be constantly reminded of his offense and is not likely to repeat it.

That appears to be justice tempered with common sense.

UNNECESSARY ACCIDENTS

In the opinion of L. H. Hutchcroft, statistician, Wisconsin Board of Health, it is possible to operate automobiles without killing or seriously injuring anyone.

Mr. Hutchcroft points out that carelessness, criminal indifference, drunkenness and physical defects are responsible for a large part of our serious accidents.

Carelessness, indifference and drunkenness are legally punishable offenses. The fact that many motorists violate one or another of them, cause accidents and go unpunished, is a biting indictment of our traffic codes and their enforcement.

Physical defects could be offset by passing strict laws requiring periodic inspections of a motor car to determine its condition.

The most tragic thing about our yearly accident toll is that it represents an unnecessary waste of life.

Accidents don't "just happen." There is generally some definite cause behind them that can be removed.

HISTORY IN 500 WORDS

Much comment has been caused by the recent announcement that former President Coolidge had been asked to write a history of the United States in 500 words, these words to be carved in stone on the Mount Rushmore Memorial in South Dakota.

It was wondered how Mr. Coolidge, even with his unusual knack for terse expression, could condense so much into a few words. Now the task has been simplified for him by the commission in charge of the memorial, which has decided that the "history" shall be limited to a consideration of only eight events deemed the most important in the life of the nation. They are these:

Declaration of Independence, 1776; the framing of the Constitution, 1787; the Louisiana Purchase, 1803; the admission of Texas as a state, 1845; the Oregon boundary settlement, 1846; the admission of California as a state, 1850; the end of the Civil war, 1865; the completion of the Panama Canal, 1914.

Whether these are the most important incidents in our history or not, they furnish ample material upon which Mr. Coolidge may exercise his talent for condensation.

People interested in Muscle Shoals may eclipse Job's reputation for patience.

A HIGH SALARIED ACTOR

One of the world's highest salaried actors arrived in America a short time ago for an extended tour. This artist, whose yearly earnings are said to be around three-quarters of a million dollars, is unusually interesting for two other reasons—he is a Chinaman, and, like many foremost Chinese actors, he plays only female parts.

For be it known that China has not permitted women to act since the son of an emperor eloped with an actress 150 years ago.

The Oriental visitor is Mei Lanfang, 32 years old, with a repertoire of some 400 plays, more than fifty of which were written by himself.

A cordial reception in New York was assured by the great reputation which had preceded him, but especially by the fact that among his sponsors are Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, Prof. John Dewey of Columbia University, Charles D. Crane, former minister to China, and other distinguished Americans.

Whether drama in Chinese will appeal to the average patron of the box office remains to be seen.

A SOFT ANSWER

"Jimmy," said his mother to her quick-tempered small boy, "you must not grow angry and say naughty things. You should always give a soft answer."

When his little brother provoked him an hour afterward, Jimmy just clenched his little fist and said, "Mush!"—The New Guide.

One effect of the World war is seen in the fact that former Kaiser Wilhelm's recent birthday was covered in a four-line news dispatch.

The boys in Congress are hoping the farmer's feeling of relief will last until after the election next fall.

SIDELIGHTS

Chicago policemen evidently read the papers. After the Daily News published a list of gunmen and their addresses the force went around and rounded up more than a thousand of them. What the courts will do about it is something else again.

The Broadway wisecrack "Don't step on it; it might be Lon Chaney" could be paraphrased by two burglars of Malone, N. Y. While robbing a store one of them stepped on the proprietor, who was sleeping on the floor. His cries brought police who captured the careless intruders.

While Louis Goldstein of Brooklyn sought to have his name changed to Golding, the judge of the court to which he applied refused his petition and bawled him out besides. The judge's name also happened to be Louis Goldstein.

Former President Coolidge rides horses, but insists on selecting them himself. While in the White House he rode an electrical horse for exercise, but recently balked when asked to mount the wooden horse "Ham," belonging to the Los Angeles Breakfast Club, which all guests are supposed to ride.

Efrem Zimbalist, famed violinist, doesn't think New York society folks are so hot, according to a story related in the magazine Time. Asked to play at a fashionable musicale, he told the prospective hostess that his fee would be $5,000, but when she informed him that he would not be expected to mingle with the guests he reduced it to $1,000.

Few careers in the business world have been more dramatic than that of Frank A. Seiberling, the tire man. Ten years ago his fortune of fifteen million was swept away in the crude rubber crash, in which he even lost his home. Being just a young fellow of 61, he started over. Now, at the age of 71, he is worth ten million and it looks as though he will be a big business man yet.

Raffles, even for sweet charity's sake, are frowned upon in New Jersey under certain circumstances. A club woman of Mays Landing raffled an automobile for the benefit of a sanitarium, but no profits were turned over, although her husband won the car. She was fined $500 for operating a lottery and ordered to pay the sanitarium $568, the cost of the machine.

COSTS AND FARM INCOME

In his annual report, L. J. Taber, Master of the National Grange, declares that the task before the American farmer is not only to produce efficiently, but also to reduce at every opportunity the costs of production.

In other words, the farmer's profit depends upon his being able to produce his crops at a cost below the price at which he must sell them, rather than upon the size of the crops themselves.

Obviously one of the chief aids to economical production is the employment of modern equipment suitable to the needs of the individual farmer concerned. Sush equipment, judiciously selected, effectively used, and taken care of when not in use, is essential to success under present-day conditions.

Another important feature of profitable farming is the raising of as much food and feed as possible at home. As has been so often pointed out, the cow, sow and hen, with hay, pasture and a good garden, are among the most valuable adjuncts of a sound farm program.

The decisions made along these lines during the next few weeks will largely determine the farmer's profit or loss during 1930.

The number of airplane used in civil pursuits in America has nearly trebled in the last three years.

HOW TO DARKEN GRAY HAIR

Makes One Look Younger.

Men and women who used to be called Grandpa and Grandma are now setting the styles by darkening their gray hair at home.

For instance, J. A. McCrean, a well known Californian, recently made the following statement:

"Anyone can prepare a simple mixture in five minutes, that will darken gray hair, and make it soft and glossy. Merely take a half-pint of water, add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and ¼ ounce of glycerine.

"These ingredients can be bought at any drug store for a trifling cost. Apply to the hair twice weekly with a comb. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and will not rub off."

POWER HOUSE REMODELED TO TAKE CARE OF ITSELF

South Cow Creek power house, 25 miles east of Redding, Shasta county, has been so remodeled that it will practically take care of itself. Formerly four men were required at the plant; now only one is needed and he only for emergencies.

The plant will shut itself down if a short circuit occurs or if a transformer burns out; its flow of water is automatically governed, and a warning bell rings if the machinery becomes overheated.

South Cow Creek generates 2,000 horse power of electricity and is tied into the Pacific Gas and Electric Company's network of transmission lines.

Get poisons out of system . . .

Doctors know that this modern scientific laxative works efficiently in smaller doses because you chew it. Safe and mild for old and young.

Feen-a-mint FOR CONSTIPATION

Just Retribution

Sometimes crime does not pay. One of these times was when a purse snatcher in New York dashed around a corner into the arms of 150 patrolmen leaving a station.

Don't neglect a COLD

DISTRESSING cold in chest or throat—that so often leads to something serious—generally responds to good old Musterole with the first application. Should be more effective if used once every hour for five hours.

Working like the trained hands of a masseur, this famous blend of oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other helpful ingredients brings relief naturally. It penetrates and stimulates blood circulation, helps to draw out infection and pain. Used by millions for 20 years. Recommended by doctors and nurses. Keep Musterole handy—jars and tubes.

To Mothers—Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

Meteor Causes Alarm

A meteor burst with tremendous noise in the city of Ribinsk, Russia, splitting fire in all directions. Luckily no damage was caused and no person injured. The ashes have been sent to Leningrad for analysis.

HAS THE LAXATIVE IN YOUR HOME A DOCTOR'S APPROVAL?

Some things people do to help the bowels whenever any bad breath, feverishness, biliousness, or a lack of appetite warn of constipation, really weaken these organs. Only a doctor knows what will cleanse the system without harm. That is why the laxative in your home should have the approval of a family doctor.

The wonderful product, known to millions as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a family doctor's prescription for sluggish bowels. It never varies from the original prescription which Dr. Caldwell wrote thousands of times in many years of practice, and proved safe and reliable for men, women and children. It is made from herbs and other pure ingredients, so it is pleasant-tasting, and can form no habit. You can buy this popular laxative from all drugstores.

The Crippled Lady of Peribonka

By James Oliver Curwood

WNU Service

(©, 1929, Doubleday Doran & Co., Inc.)

STORY FROM THE START

Introducing some of the people of the pretty little French-Canadian village of Peribonka, particularly the Crippled Lady, idol of the simple inhabitants. Paul Kirke is a descendant of a sister of Molly Brant, sister of Joseph Brant, great Indian chief. He has inherited many Indian characteristics. His father is a powerful New York financier. Paul marries Claire Durand, daughter of his father's partner. He is in charge of engineering work near Peribonka. Paul's wife is in Europe. She dislikes the woods. Paul becomes interested in Carla, village teacher.

CHAPTER III—Continued

Mrs. Haldan was the soul of this cheer. Twenty-five years in America had taken from her the ruggedness of her native mountains but had left the spirit of their beauty. She looked at Paul with the same eyes that Carla had. Her hair was heavy, like Carla's, and almost white. Paul had a vision of her back in her mountains, a quarter of a century before. How much she must have looked like Carla then! What beauty grew in those out-of-the-way places, like flowers lost in rugged rock crevices, with ages of history and the struggle of life behind it to give it character. A beauty with indestructible memories along with other things. Memory of love, most of all. He knew that Carla's father had died twenty years before, but one could always see him clearly in the eyes of Carla's mother, and when she talked about him it was as though he had gone away on a little visit only yesterday.

Carla would be like that. One love, one man, forever.

There was no pretense in her mother's gladness that he had come. They visited for an hour, and Carla made tea and served little cakes.

Never had Paul seen Carla so beautiful as during this wonderful hour he spent with her mother. When he was about to leave, and stood with her alone for a few moments, it seemed to him he could feel the throbbing of her body near him. Her fingers pressed his hand a little convulsively when he said good-by.

"You have made me happier than I have been in a long time," she said.

The words repeated themselves in his mind after he had gone. No woman had ever told him that he had made her happy, except his mother, Carla—and his mother. He took a long walk in the rain—up through the jack pines into the heavier evergreen timber, where the drizzle penetrated only in a mist—and the two women walked at his side. Then his wife joined them. Three wonderful women: his mother, Carla, his wife—with a fourth waiting for death back in her chair. The world must forever continue to be beautiful with such women in it. It was Claire, his wife, who turned him about and took him back to Derwent's home. He talked about her that evening. But he said nothing about the other three. They were locked in his heart, and it seemed sacrilege to open the door upon them.

CHAPTER IV

The next day was Saturday, and Paul started for Peribonka early in the morning with Carla. Bad weather had given way at last to glorious autumnal sunshine and warmth. He was glad the rain-soaked sand and clay made a horse and buggy necessary. Carla was different, had grown different overnight. The beauty which had come into her face when he was with her mother had not disappeared to leave it so tense and strained again. She seemed nearer to him, infinitely more dependent than yesterday, and happier—if there could be such a thing as that emotion left in her life.

They crossed the great blueberry "burns," with miles and miles of flat, wet country about them, reaching toward the lake on one side and the timbered wilderness on the other. Only at wide intervals was there a habitation's home, and they met no one on the sticky road. Even this barrenness Paul loved. He talked to Carla about the country. All nature, no matter how desolate it might appear to others, was beautiful to him, he said. Nature could not make a desolation that was not beautiful, and never was there a jarring note in its handiwork. Because most humans could not see the beauty and pathos of a fire-blackened stub or the enchanting mystery of a dormant pond was not proof that Nature had made an error. It was merely evidence that most human eyes were blind.

In a sandy place he got out and cut bushes weighted heavily with blueberries, and they plucked the luscious fruit from the same stems and ate it as they rode along. It was almost happiness. Only the grim thing shadowing them kept it from being that, and even this shadow seemed to fold its wings for flashing moments. It grew warm, and with the habit of her mother's people, Carla bared her head to let the air stir in her hair. Paul looked at it, with the restless desire in him growing stronger. It was always so smooth and soft, with its silky coils so gracefully fitting her head, that it seemed a loss of something precious not to touch its beauty. He thought of what Lucy-Belle had told her husband—of the love story in Carla's life. Some man had loved it. Some man had put his hand upon it. As their road came into green timber and he listened to Carla's voice telling him that in her own heart was a love for Nature so great that she would never live in a city again, he wondered what it was that had spoiled her romance so that she would never care for any other man or marry.

They came to Peribonka, and Maria Chapdelaine set them a luncheon in the old-fashioned little dining room overlooking her garden, with its luxuriant array of vegetables and flowers. She admired Carla, and brought in a little girl she had adopted to show her what loveliness one might come to possess if one lived right. Carla was a bit embarrassed, and Paul delighted, by such ardent and frankly spoken approval. Samuel Chapdelaine, tall, thin, and the main prop of Peribonka's church choir, joined them at the table for a visit, and after a time Paul took him aside and explained his mission. They went up the street together, and when they returned the business was over. The small square of ground with its wild honeysuckle vines belonged to Carla.

He took her to see it after they said good-by to the Chapdelaines, and when they stood over it, looking down at the river, he saw tears in Carla's eyes for the first time since he had known her. She made no movement to hide them or wipe them away when she smiled her gratitude at him. He held out his hand, and she gave him her own. He held it for a few moments, and neither broke the silence which fell between them as they walked down the footpath and through the picket gate.

An impulse which neither attempted to voice held them for a time in Peribonka. They went down to the river's edge and stood where they could see the birds splashing water over themselves on the sandbars. They saw the dumpy little twelve-week boat from across the lake unloading goods for the villagers and habitants at its dilapidated wharf. On the opposite shore, close to the wayside, was a shrine. They could see its cross from where they stood, with the sun shining on it.

When they were ready to go Paul felt as if he were leaving something in Peribonka, just as the warmth of Carla's hand had left something in his heart. Carla, Peribonka, the little plot of ground—they would be as unforgettable as Mrs. Haldan's memories. He thought of this as they rode back through the afternoon. He thought of it later when he stood in his office again, and looked down upon the smash and grind of machinery in the pit. It troubled him and made him restless and uneasy. This day, burned deeply into his life, seemed unreal now that it was over. It was as if an experience had turned into a dream, a thing of a few minutes instead of hours.

The friendly, faintly smiling gaze of his wife followed him about the room. He answered her letter that evening, and in his pages to her his freshly roused emotions found their voice. He told about the tragedy in Carla's life, of their journey to Peribonka, and of the little plot of ground in the cemetery. Writing in his office, with his wife's face looking at him, it was not difficult for him to let the floods pour out, just as he had unleashed them once or twice before in his six years of married life with her. He was a man, wanting a woman. He wanted his wife. He did not want her in Europe or Egypt, or waiting for him in a palace at home. He wanted her with him. He told her this as tenderly as a man could write to a woman. It was a letter of love, of arisen hope, of visionings—to his wife Carla was the inspiration of it.

Indian Monkeys Assume

Role of Bold Bandits

Depredations of monkeys at the hill station of Matheran, near Bombay, India, are causing annoyance and anxiety. Cases have been reported where various articles and food have been snatched away from women and children, and in one instance a well-organized raid was carried out on a meat safe full of fruit. Monkeys abound all over southern India, but it is unusual for them to become so daring as to play the role of highwaymen. In many parts of India monkeys, as well as peacocks, are encouraged by Hindus to live in the temple precincts, and often near the idol, Hanuman, "the monkey god." One railway station in India is literally in the hands of monkeys, who swarm all over the roof, and passengers are regularly warned to close the windows of the carriages. Failure to observe this warning inevitably results in the loss of food and small articles from carriages.

It is a thousand times more important to be interested than to be interesting.—Farrar and Fireside.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

By Mary Graham Bonner

TOOTHLESS ONES

"We're toothless mammals—that's what we are—and fine and unusual," said one of the members of the nine-banded armadillo family.

"Let's each tell our own story," said the six-banded armadillo, who was named Sir Six for short.

"All right," agreed the three-banded armadillo.

"I'll come first," said Sir Nine, "because it was my suggestion some time ago."

"To be sure," said the others, "we're listening. We are all attention and ready to hear what you have to say to us. Then we expect the same attention from you."

"I certainly will give you my attention," said Sir Nine, "just as soon as I am through with my own tale."

"Tail! Tail!" said the others.

"I mean story," said Sir Nine.

"But you didn't say story, you said tail," the others said.

"Of course I did, but there is one kind of a tale which means a story, and that's the kind I'm about to begin."

"We understand now," the others said. "Thanks for explaining. We didn't know at first what you meant by getting through with your own tail—but now, of course, we see."

"Yes, we see quite clearly, and understand perfectly."

Poor Sir Nine was becoming anxious for fear the others would not listen to him, but at last they were quiet and he began.

"I'm about the size of an opossum," he said.

"We're about the same size," said the others.

"Oh dear," he said, "I never have a chance at all. You said you would hear my story first, and I don't say more than two or three words when you interrupt."

"That's so," the others agreed.

"We're dreadfully sorry and we promise not to do so again."

"Well," said Sir Nine, "where was I? Oh yes, I said I was an armadillo, a toothless mammal about the size of an opossum."

"I have a horny shell with nine bands in the middle, all joined together, and this shell is my protection."

"I couldn't live without it. Because there are nine bands in my shell I am known as the nine-banded armadillo. I live in holes in the earth, and my food is a mixture of ants, snails, beetles, grasshoppers, worms and all other nice insects."

"I am called Sir Nine for short as you all know."

"Well," commenced the six-banded armadillo, "I have heard almost the story of my own life and ways. My habits are about the same as yours."

"I eat the same food; I dig in the ground and live there, and I have a horny shell which is my protection."

"There is just one thing about us that is different. I have six bands on my shell and so am called the six-banded armadillo, and for short I am known as Sir Six."

"And one more thing which I had almost forgotten—my shell is even more bony than yours and it's a great deal stronger."

"It was time for the three-banded armadillo to speak. 'I am far more rare than either of you,' he said."

"There aren't so many of my family. I can do a number of tricks that neither of you can do."

"I can roll myself into a nice little round ball and only my bony parts will stick out which will protect me from the other animals. Yes, I protect myself superbly in this way. Quite superbly."

"Why superbly?" the others asked.

"It's always superb to live," said the three-banded armadillo, "and so I protect myself to live—see?"

The others nodded. "And," he continued, "I have only three bands and so am named the three-banded armadillo and am called Sir Three as you all know."

His Name

A very small boy had been placed in a Sunday school class, but the teacher somehow did not learn his full name. When he told her his name was Jack, she said, "Jack what?"

"Oh, just Jack," came the answer.

"Yes, but what is your other name?" she persisted, only to be told again that it was Jack.

Finally, she thought she had it, and said, "But what does your mother call your father?"

"Sugar," he replied.

This Mother Had Problem

As a rule, milk is about the best food for children, but there are times when they are much better off without it. It should always be left off when children show by feverish, fretful or cross spells, by bad breath, coated tongue, sallow skin, indigestion, biliousness, etc., that their stomach and bowels are out of order.

In cases like this, California Fig Syrup never fails to work wonders, by the quick and gentle way it removes all the souring waste which is causing the trouble, regulates the stomach and bowels and gives these organs tone and strength so they continue to act normally of their own accord. Children love its rich, fruity flavor and it's purely vegetable and harmless, even for babies.

Millions of mothers have proved its merit and reliability in over 50 years of steadily increasing use. A Western mother, Mrs. May Snavely, Montrose, California, says: "My little girl, Edna's, tendency to constipation was a problem to me until I began giving her California Fig Syrup. It helped her right away and soon her stomach and bowels were acting perfectly. Since then I've never had to have any advice about her bowels. I have also used California Fig Syrup with my little boy, with equal success."

To be sure of getting the genuine, which physicians endorse, always ask for California Fig Syrup by the full name.

Men are a good deal alike, except that some are afraid.

For COLDS

We all catch colds and they can make us miserable; but yours needn't last long if you will do this: Take two or three tablets of Bayer Aspirin just as soon as possible after a cold starts. Stay in the house if you can—keep warm. Repeat with another tablet or two of Bayer Aspirin every three or four hours, if those symptoms of cold persist. Take a good laxative when you retire, and keep bowels open. If throat is sore, dissolve three tablets in a quarter-glassful of water and gargle. This soothes inflammation and reduces infection. There is nothing like Bayer Aspirin for a cold, or sore throat. And it relieves aches and pains almost instantly. The genuine tablets, marked Bayer, are absolutely harmless to the heart.

ALL OF SEASON'S "HITS" WILL PLAY DALY CITY FIRST

All of the really big hit specials will have their first run showings at the Daly City Theatre, the first of which will be Irene Bordoni in "Paris," an exclusive showing that will play only at the Daly City Theatre. This particular picture play enjoyed an extended run at the California Theatre in downtown San Francisco, where it established a box office record that promises to stand for days to come. It is a five star picture play and had a Broadway, New York, showing at a $6.60 top. The booking at the Daly City Theatre is for Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, March 11, 12 and 13. Don't fail to see and hear this delightful Vitaphone hit from the First National studios. You'll like it. It has everything, from girls to more girls, filmed in natural colors, and with the one and only Irene Bordoni in all of the singing, dancing, talking and laughing sequences.

For Saturday, March 8, Dorothy Mackaill will be seen and heard with Charles Delaney in a Vitaphone comedy special, "Hard to Get." An additional feature will be seen in "The Ware Case," on this same bill.

For Sunday, playing a continuous show, Nancy Carroll, together with Jack Oakie and Helen Kane, will be heard in the Paramount film talking and singing production, "Sweetie."

Monday brings the ever popular Eddie's Adversity to Daly City, together with Evelyn Brent in "Woman Trap," a tremendous talking melodrama from the Paramount studios. This will be heard over the film track process of which Daly City had the first installation in the district on the Colorart Sound System.

For Friday, March 14, Richard Dix will be seen and heard in "The Love Doctor," a screamingly funny comedy special adapted from the stage hit, "The Boomerang," in which Tom Moore recently starred at the Alcazar.

Radio Keith Orpheum's talking picture hit of the century, "Rio Rita," will have its first run showing at the Daly City Theatre March 18, 19 and 20, to be followed by First National's Vitaphone sensation, "The Great Divide," on Friday and Saturday, March 22 and 23. It is said of "The Great Divide" that it is even better than "In Old Arizona." By all means see it.

FIRE PREVENTION ESSAY FOR SCHOOLS

California school children will be given an opportunity this month to demonstrate their knowledge of the value of forest fire prevention.

Announcement is made by the Stop Forest Fires committee of California of an essay contest in the public schools of the state conducted with the approval of the state superintendent of public instruction on the subject, "What I will do to help prevent forest fires."

The contest is limited to pupils in the seventh to twelfth grades, with those in the seventh to ninth grades constituting one class and the tenth to twelfth grades constituting another class. Prizes of $75, $50 and $25 will be awarded in each class of essays and a grand state award of $100, a bronze medal will be given in addition. The contest closes March 31 and essays are limited to 350 words. The medal awards are the gift of the American Forestry Association.

The Stop Forest Fires Committee consists of representatives of the United States Forest Service, United States Bureau of Public Roads, National Park Service, State Division of Forestry, State Division of Parks, State Highway Commission, County Supervisors' Association of California, Automobile Club of Southern California, and California State Automobile Association.

COMMON SENSE SHOULD GOVERN INVESTMENTS

If the average wage-earner would content himself with building up a comfortable account in the bank rather than trying to make a "big killing," in a stock deal, he would be far more prosperous in the long run. This is the opinion of Charles G. Johnson, state treasurer, who says common sense should govern the matter of small investments.

"California is a wealthy and prosperous state," said Johnson. "Its working classes earn good salaries, ride in automobiles, own their own homes, radio sets, electric washing machines and other things that have elevated their standards of living."

"What is most needed right now is a campaign of education to teach the average man not to yield to the foolish temptation of speculation. From another point of view, it is nothing but gambling—taking a long chance to get something for nothing. Fortunes are not made in that way."

Johnson believes that every parent should instill into his children the wisdom of saving their pennies and nickels, and to watch the money mount to a comfortable sum in the savings bank.

SHE PUT HIM WISE

"You know, dad, he always said he'd never marry until the right girl came along."

"Well, how does he know you are the right one?"

"Oh, I told him so."—Tit-Bits.

FISH AND GAME NOTES

By J. H. NEUSTADT

When the public is educated to an understanding of the number of men engaged, the cost in money, the voluntary service and other contributions in the effort to propagate and distribute trout alone, in this state, every citizen will co-operate and prosecutions for violations will be unknown.

Feeding experiments have recently been made at the separate hatcheries to produce the largest, strongest, best able to survive fish, and these experiments comprise five different food mixtures, all under the supervision of state officers scientifically trained for this work.

Dehydrated salmon eggs as a commercial product were found good. Sardine meal was found to contain to high a bacterial content for safety. Shrimp meal and alfalfa meal were also used, the latter being of the regular mill run, beef liver and fresh milk clabbered with rinnet tablets.

Salmon eggs and beef liver forced the growth, but the fish lacked stamina, and were more susceptible to disease, sardine meal and fresh liver produced fish of good size, but lacking in stamina, sardine and alfalfa experiment was a failure, almost all test fish dying.

It was discovered that meal generally was undesirable. Raw and cooked kelp produced a like unsatisfactory result, and that raw liver was the sustaining food. Salmon eggs when mixed with liver were permissible but changed the size and make up of the fish. Shrimp meal when supplemented with liver was good, but great care had to be used with the meal or the good effects were lost. Sardine meal is of little value and of such specific gravity as to sink before fish could eat it. Alfalfa is the opposite in being so light that powered meal floats away before fish can get it.

The costs of these foods being so nearly alike it was determined that raw liver was most efficient and satisfactory of all foods tried.

Think of the effort the state is making to supply food and sport for citizens, and help carry on the great work by respect for the law and so far as possible see that others respect it too.

WORKMAN'S LIFE SAVED BY BRAVERY OF COMRADE

Gene Du Mond, P. G. & E. lineman at Eureka, came through a crisis the other day when he saved the life of Earl P. Brown, a fellow worker. Du Mond and Brown were working at the top of a 45-foot pole when Brown's right arm came in contact with a 4,000-volt wire. As Brown lay unconscious on one of the cross-arms, Du Mond leaped to the rescue, extricated him and made speedy plans to lower him to the ground for first aid. So prompt was Du Mond's action, however, that Brown regained consciousness in a second or two and, although he had to be helped from the pole and placed under a doctor's care for a time, he suffered no serious effects from an experience that otherwise might have been fatal.

THE TELEPHONE SCIENCE

Marvels of the telephone science are the dial central office apparatus which operate without human attention. Complicated, delicately adjusted machinery takes the dialed call and connects the caller with his party, unaided by human hands. Alarm signals inform the company if anything goes wrong. Otherwise, the officers are visited only every few weeks by inspectors.

California's eleventh annual observance of Public Schools Week, which has come to be recognized as a community event throughout the state, will be celebrated this year during the week of April 21st, according to a proclamation issued by Charles M. Wollenburg, Grand Master of Masons of California.

The week was originally instituted as a Masonic function in an effort to aid the public schools because of a shortage of teachers due to war and post war conditions. The observance has gradually increased in public interest, according to Charles Albert Adams, chairman of state activities for the eleventh consecutive year, until a record last year was made of over 500 meetings throughout the state held in school auditoriums and public halls and participated in by parent teacher associations, city, county and state officials and civic, commercial and fraternal organizations generally.

JEWISH EDITOR WILL DELIVER MESSAGE

Rev. Charles Woessner, pastor of the Calvary Baptist Chapel, 5724 Mission street, announces the following services for next Sunday:

In the morning: Sermon by Mr. Adrian Waldo Sasha, known in Russia as S. Roginsky. His message will be, "Why as a Jew I Believe in Jesus." Mr. Sasha has won quite a name for himself among the Jewish people through his position as editor for a prominent Jewish paper. He is also the author of the book titled "The Laws of Life." This volume shows how the essence of Judaism inevitably points to Jesus as the Christ—the Messiah. Mr. Sasha is a graduate from schools in Russia, has attended the University of California, and is now a theological student in the Berkeley Baptist Divinity School. At one time he was connected with the labor movements in this country and Canada. Mr. Sasha will in his message tell of how he became a Christian and what Christ is meaning to him.

In the evening the pastor will speak on "Old Oil in New Lanterns." This will be a discourse on the meaning and difference between the old faith and the new. What difference there is, if any. Many cry for the old time religion when yet they themselves can not define it. This message will be an attempt to define the meaning of the Gospel—the true message of Jesus for the world.
